SALE SEED OF SALES THE INVENTOR OF INDEPENDENCE DAY CELEBRATIONS

be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great Anniversary Festival. \\ It ought to be commemorated, as -the day of deliverance, by solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty. It ought to be solemnized with pomp, shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires and illuminations from one end of the continent to the other from this time forward forever." President John Adams.

John Adams Foretold Our Noisy Celebrations

OHN ADAMS, a signer from a letter written by him to his wife by young man when he wrote this let-

Ben Easton's Fourth

By MANDA L. CROCKER

her that it is independence day in more but a continuation of yesterday's chap-be a serious affair at the finish. How-

Yes; "he had begun," but he had "just cause and provocation," as old Squire

Prebles would quote, and so he chir-runed to the restive bays triumphantly,

He had meant to take the new turn-to the end, now that he had begun.

This outburst, which did not augur ways than one!"

stepped lightly into the two-seated canopy-

top and, flecking a bit of dust from his sleeve,

Miss Millie a trick"-

a seemed there was

took up the ribbons with

of the Declaration of In- from Philadelphia on July 3, 1776, 24 ter, being then but 41 years of age. He hours before old Liberty Bell had pro- lived to be more than 90, and before his president of the United claimed to an expectant nation that its death saw this great day celebrated as States, was the stanch representatives had thrown off the yoke he wished it relebrated over practically friend of the American of the tyrannical George III.

Not only did he believe it to be Thus it is that Prerident Adams is the tineut south of the Canadian line. His boy's inalienable right, but his inventor of Independence day celebra- death occurred on July 4, 1826, and on tic duty to burn his fingers with tions. Thus it is that the American the same day, and at almost the same wder and to deafen the populace boy has his first and most prominent hour, there died also Thomas Jefferson, izes of all descriptions on the authority for his hilarious observance a colleague of Adams' on the commitby ratal day. That such was his of this, the greatest day in our history tee which drafted the famous document heaven by the above extract President Adams was a comparative-declaring American independence.

of company in spite of-her age. Right in the middle of a dissertation on the old-fashioned "Fourth" Jack a lordly hand. "I'll show was with bim! more emphasis than was astonished that he did not finish the necessary - "T'll show

"You did not expect to see them to ether," said she, nodding toward the Kennedy turnout. "O, yes; they made well for Ben Easton's "Fourth," was up weeks ago and are to be married in September," and she smiled, amused at ter, and he doubted not but that it would "I-didn't-know," stammered he. ever, he meant to maintain his dignity finally, looking straight over the horses' heads and feeling that the earth must be spinning a good bit faster than usual, "Well, I know," rejoined Rose, "for have a part in the festivities. But, my! don't look as if you had seen a ghost, Mr. Easton; it is no uncommon thing out and Millicent Radeliffe to the Pentfor lovers to make up, is it? I notice they generally get married then, silly water picnic; but the former was thut things! I should never be caught that up hearse-like in the carriage house, thile the latter- Well, he had heard way. If a man will quarrel before marriage, rest assured he will after; and · could not tell for his life how or re-that Millie intended making a I'd as lief live with a Hottentot as a ack Kennedy. With this exasperat-Miss Hilton made a telling shot, but gossip in mind he had called on Ben covered up his wounds and made no the the evening before. He had found sign. He was wondering if his indeher under the cherry tree by the front pendence was not on the wane somegate, looking as Innocent as a Madonna what. He wished he knew what Millis while she gathered the crimson fruit. was doing; and he tried to imagine, if He thought she grew a trifle nervous Miss Hilton preferred a Hottentot to one like himself, what Millie's opinion could be by this time. He was afraid the trick he meant to show her was only mean, sneaky one, after all,

When they reached the grounds every body seemed to have a great breezy corner on American liberty and enjoyment, but their merriment drove him into his shell farther and farther. What had he in common with them, a man who was worse than a Hottentot? He had heard of people seeing themselves oceasionally, and felt that the salutary experience was coming to him.

But the Hiltons did not notice his mood in the least. When they planned omething jolly, if he could not join in they simply left him out as if he were of no consequence. And when Tom proposed going to the top of a bluff. planting the stars and stripes and shooting off firecrackers in order to "play it was Bunker Hill." he thought he was the biggest fool extant.

"I feel more like a tory," he muttered as he plumped himself into the rustic

"I presume you are all ready for the had excused him again and gone for a row on the water; and while he sat disconsolate and lone he saw Millie drive on to the grounds in the Hilton phaeton, The horses looked jaded and she seemed weary and troubled. If he had not been was expecting this and was prepared. such a brute, how he would now fly to "Oh," she answered, "then you her comfort. But a boy took the horses

"No! I naven't heard, neither have and she sought a seat under the trees. you!" he almost shouted; for, although "I ought to go to her," he said, look-Millie's old auntie was no favorite of ing longingly her way. "but I'm to see Ben's, he was not going to have her this cursed blunder to the end. Heavens! I might as well end it now, while those confounded Hiltons are not by." "It's no fault of Minerva Radeliffe's He came and stood before her penithat you've jilted me at the last minute for that upstart of a Kennedy; of course Flushed and trate he then swept down day, too, for it, Will you forgive me, the summery lane, leaving Millie no Millie?"

chance of explanation. "Like a cyclone," she said, but her eyes were full of pain and astonishment, while the cherries dropped un-It was not pleasant to remember it

"I AM AWFULLY SORRY, BEN."

"I am awfully sorry. Ben," she be

'Why?" he exclaimed fiercely. He haven't heard that Aust Minerva"- saddled with this subterfuge.

seat and said:

show to-morrow.

gan, "but I cannot go."

now; but he had begun the trouble and with you this morning; would you be be meant to see the end. At the Hilton gate he reined in the horses and called out to Tom on the front lawn: "Anybody here who wants He spoke with eager assurance, and to go to the picnie?"

Why, yes; you are a godsend, true cried Tom, springing to his "The girls want to go awfully bad, and I wouldn't mind an invitation. too, if there's room.

"Aft- right," smiled Ben. "I am at Away went Tom to the house to repeat the invitation, and Ben cogitated. He would have Lura sit with him and the old maid might repose on the back seat with Thomas. And then when they met Jack Kennedy and Millie, why!

" I am apt to believe that it will

a frightened collie, while the magnifi- tory and a-travesty. cent Rose was handed up to Ben by her Kennedy passed them. He lifted his cap to the Misses Hilton and bowed to phaeton, as nuntie could ride best in Ben as ! - went by. But Grace Phillips that. I drove to Fairview to-day," she

Why!-I-thought-" and Rose Hilton's partner on the front seat was so gusted with me to take me back?" sentence.

Ben Easton's perplexed face.

deal, as to escorts, and had her eye | jealous husband.

under his breath, "and I've already met my Bunker Hill." But they did not seem to hear him and scampered away for their sham battle, leaving him to

Along in the afternoon the Hiltons ently. She looked up. "I have been a brute," he said; "have suffered all

"I have been sorry all day, too," she

"But you haven't done anything." he replied.

She looked reproachfully and said "Shall ! tell now why I could not come lieve me?" "You need not explain; it is all right and you would not do wrong, Millie,"

she smiled a little. "Your faith in me is like a mushroom, grew in a night," she said, "and may perish in a day."

"Millie," said he, desperately, "I'll go and hang myself if you make fun of "Not on the Fourth," she objected, 'Independence day, you know.' 'It is a travesty on independence!

he almost groans "No, you are the travesty," she cor T've been called hard names to-day."

all of the civilized portion of the con-

But Lura shied into the rear seat like he returned bitterly; "a Hottentot, a

"I have heard of triple characters, chivalrous brother. Well, no matter, she answered smiling jeily: "but where Ben took up the thread of his plan a lit- are the Hiltons?" looking out over the tle crestfallen; no matter, the Hiltons water. "They came with you." were a jolly lot and Rose was the best

"Did they?" he queried. "Yes; I was in the Hilton parlor when you invited them.

"You?" in astonishment "Yes; I went over to get the basket ended, sadly. "Millie," cried Ben, "are you too dis-"Back home? O, no. 1 planned as much with the Hiltons this morning.

"I HAVE BEEN A BRUTE"

Tom will drive the canopy-top and you will go with me in the phaeton "Then the Hiltons know everything?"

te looked at her in humiliation, "They know why I could not come with you this morning," she said, eva-he seat and wished he knew as much as the Hiltons, just then. But he would be thankful that they did not know all. At this juncture the trio came up betraggled and happy, carrying immense wreaths of water lilies, and were ready to go home.

"It has been such a jolly day!" exclaimed Rose; stringing a fragrant wreath on her arm and addressing Millie.

"Yes: everybody is so independently happy," answered Miss Radcliffe, Ben Easton bit his lips and flushed to the roots of his hair. Would he get to the finish of this before it finished him?

"Fact," echoed Tom over Ben's head. "I've been having a fine time, too, When your aunt wanted the phaeton I thought we were done for; but when you sent Ben around, you let us all out, Miss Rad-

"There's always a way out," put in Ben, catching at straws and hoping he was the son of a prophet at least.

But his remark must have sounded extremely funny, for it was received with a storm of applause. Tom went so far as to roll on the sward in his meriment, asking the girls to give three cheers for "the way out."

Rose shook her head warningly and xclaimed: "O, Tom! You've just missed mixing yourself with the remains of a custard pie!" and he heeded the warning in time to prevent the mix-up and a colony of ants which had intentions on the aforesaid custard. "Ben's a prophet," said he, soberly; there is a way out, and it comes some imes by believing in your friends."

But Ben did not even smile. When the shadows lengthened and verybody was getting everybody else's dinner basket, the Hiltons filled up the canopy-top with themselves and their burden of Hies and rolled merrily home ward. The phaeton followed with a more sedate couple.

"Millie," said Ben, by and by, "were you sorrowing so because I broke your heart, dear?"

"O, no," answered she, quietly. "Aunt Minerva had a telegram yesterday that Uncle Abner was dead, and to come immediately. I thought a great deal of Uncle Abner!" "O-oh! then you did not think of ma?"

hagrined in spite of himself. "O. no; I thought you could take care of yourself; you were so independent, and she sighed complacently. And Ben Easton knew that he had come plump up against "the finish," and had missed his dignity.

THE TEMPLE OF FRATERNITY.

The administration building of the new Fraternal City, for consumptives, which will be located in New Mexico by the fraternal organizations of the SEASON'S BATHING SUIT. Buy Mohair or Light-Weight Serge

and Make with Short Skirt and Short or No Sleeves, Bathing suits are growing to be quite important adjuncts to a summer wardrobe. This year they're more in teresting than ever, coming in tailored styles that are as well cut and shaped as a suit. Mohair is the best material for allaround wear, and this year the new mohairs will be used, with the odd differences of weave that resolve themselves into shadow-checks and plaids and stripes. They're twice as pretty as the plain stuff, and make a much more stunning suit. There will be more suits of mobair worn than of any other material.

Whatever you do, don't make your mit of flannel-it's distinctly "out." Use serge instead, if you want something of that sort, and get a light weight wiry serge, so that it will keep in shape and yet not become heavy the instant it gets wet.

If you get serge, or, in fact, any woolen stuff, have it sponged before you cut into your suit. You'll not have the disappointment of spoiling it the first time you go in bathing.

High and low neck styles are equal ly good, but the favorite of all is a style just a little low-there's so much more freedom of movement if the neck isn't confined in a high collar. The skirt should reach just to the bend of the knee. And the sleeves should always be either short or elbow length, or, like the new swimming sleeve, just a row of straps.

A good bathing suit has the gored skirt so popular this year. A little extra fullness is got into the skirt by a box plait on each side of the front, running from about half way down to the hem. The waist is trimmed with narrow tucks, from which narrow bands of white extend, like pipings, and the idea is repeated on the skirt.

The sailor collar is a particularly good shape, and is just wide enough to give an athletic width to the shoul ders without coming out so far over the tops of the sleeves as to droop

Down the front are buttons set in pairs, with, for fastenings, a cord joined and knotted in the middle, so as to leave a loop to slip over each button. Under the front of the waist runs a wide flap, to prevent any possible slipping of the fronts.

The belt and band around the bottom of the skirt are made of white and trimmed with several rows of stitching, and these bands should be made of the same material as the suit. It would be pretty carried out in blue mohair with a shadow check, and 'rimmed with plain white mobair.

CONCERNING THE BATH.

Find Out What Is Good for Oneself - What One Woman Considered an Ideal Cleansing.

Summer is the ideal time for testing one's ability to endure the daily bath, but no woman should make the change too abruptly. Neither, after taking warm baths all winter, should she attempt to plunge into cold water, like the experienced cold-water fiend. If she is accustomed to a daily tubbing in warm water, let her reduce the temperature of the water a few degrees each day until it drops to 65. If she cannot stand a cold plunge, let her try sponging with cold water. For this purpose she can use a foot-tub, filling it half or a third with tepid or warm water in which she stands, and then sponge off the body with water from the cold faucet. This sponging may be done with an ordinary sponge, a Turkish wash-rag or the bare hands, Another way to educate oneself up to the daily cold bath is to use the shower Take a warm (not a hot) bath, lasting from six to ten minutes, and then turn on the cold shower for a quick finish, If you have no shower attached to your tub, buy for 25 cents one of the rubber tubes with a nickel spray attached, of the sort most often used for rinsing the hair after a shampoo. Attach this to body with it briskly.

the cold water faucet and spray the One successful newspaper woman who spends the entire summer in town taking her annual vacation for sentimental reasons in October, lay down this regime of bathing. She says that she is not strong enough to take a cold dip every morning, but she takes a cold sponge, rubs herself quickly, and if it is a sunny morning rolls herself in a kimona and lies for a few moments where the sun can pour upon her. In winter she takes exercise for five minutes in place of the sun bath. When she comes home at night, before going to dinner, she invariably changes her gown; bathing her face, neck, chest and arms with oatmeal water, which she finds extremely soothing. Then just before retiring she takes a warm (not a hot) bath for 15 minutes, and retires to sleep the sleep of the just-and the well-cleansed.

Petticonts.

Petticoats are as simple or as elaborate as one may prefer. By all odds the most beautiful to wear with thin gowns are the hand-embroidered batiste petticoats. These are as exquisite as human ingenuity and skill can make them, and some of them are of almost fabulous price. One very dainty one bore the modest legend that it might be had for $150! But there'are pretty ones to be had as low as $10, and they are more last-ing and smarter than a silk skirt.

When Washing Hands.

Archbishop Moeller of Cincinnati has organized a choir of priests to render Gregorian music at the funeral of all priests in his archdio

At the next consistory the pope will make Braga, bishop of Petropolis, a cardinal. in accordance with Brazil's special request. Braga will be the first South American cardinal.

Bishop Hoss of the Methodist Episcopal church south will preside over the Brazil mission next fall. Bishop Galloway has charge of the missions in Japan, Korea and China. The Cuban and Mexican mission work is under the care of Bishop Candler.

"And now I come to the chest develop-I have the finest chest in the world, they tell me. I am exquisitely

The bishop of London might be taken for a comedian but for his costume. Were he in the theatrical profession his unfailing sense of humor man of exhaustless energy, he does a more uncomfortable symptoms universally halled with delight by children. In the East End the small ragamuffins run against his gaiters and and settled in it in just the years that I worked in a gymnasium so long and shout welcome; in the West End he ought to be the very happiest. Physicisms is an equal favorite among the young could not tell them how to get rid of it. is an equal favorite among the young. I can bend way forward and way backall regarding him as a glorified playward, and I can bend sideways and in fellow. An admirer said recently: "When London has done killing him he will have earned his martyrdom."

this way and that way. It is delightful "While I am fasting I bend and sway. I do the old-fashioned stunt of bending forward and laying my hands flat on the floor. I do this continually. It is the way I rest myself. If you are tired OTHER PEOPLE'S THOUGHTS.

stronger harness.

our own cookies. Men who intend to be good to-mor-they get with it .- Henry F. Cope. My head is resting sweetly upon less and of little account, these are only extraordinary reason; why God should care for you.—John & Steven-Son. sure that they do not exercise. They ought to begin and do stunts. It is easy and it takes no time at all. You can snatch 15 minutes out of any day to do these stunts. "The woman who wants a nice, full chest development must not forget to throw out her chest. The flat-chested woman is ant to stoop. She bends forward; she has a cough and she looks pale. She should straighten up, throw back her shoulders, breathe deeply and take the gymnastic exercise. It would do her good to bend backward and to sway from side to side. "The flat-chested woman could beat her chest. Reating your chest is excellent exercise. It may make you cough a little, but no matter. Give yourself a good thump, breathe deeply and don't forget that you are trying to develop your chest. The influence of mind over matter is a great deal, and a kind of instinct will tell you what to do next. I have the widest, fullest chest for my size in the world. And I think I can take a great deal of credit to

THE CARE OF THE TEETH.

Children Should Be Taught the Nice ties of the Toilet from Their Earliest Years.

Children should be taught to use tooth-brush and some good dentrifice after every meal, and especially before going to bed at night. There are few things more offensive to the sight than a foul, neglected mouth, and few things easier to avoid, if proper care is given the teeth. One of the cheapest and most effective dentrifices is common table salt, dissolved in a little wa ter, and if used with a good brush regu larly, very little else will be needed There are many tooth soaps on the market, at reasonable prices, and many of them are very good, but often they are harmful, and it is as well to make one's own dentrifice. If the gums are tender and inclined to bleed easily, select a brush adapted to their tender condition, and do not give them excessive friction. Your dentist will tell you a preparation for hardening the gums without harming them. A great many persons cannot use a hard brush. A very good tooth soap is made of pre pared chaik six parts and good, pure soap, one part, rubbed together thoroughly. Charcoal, powdered pumice stone, cuttle-fish and similar substances are not readily soluble in the mouth, and often do more harm than good. The teeth should be brushed downward from both sides of the upper teeth and upward from both sides on the lower teeth, and the mouth well rinsed with a simple solution of water and powdered borax, or water and table salt. A bit of thread, or dental floss, should be run between the teeth in order to remove any deposit which has escaped

If children were taught these little niceties of the toilet from their earliest years, the habit would become fixed and they would not think they could neglect this important duty of cleanliness of the mouth.

A Hair Tonic.

Here is a tonic which will increase the growth of the hair: Cologne, eight ounce: oil of English lavendar, oil of rosemary, one-half dram each. Apply The hands can be cleansed better with rosemary, one-half dram each. Apply warm water than with cold, but they to the roots of the hair once or twice should always be rinsed afterward with cold water, as it keeps them in better the scalp should be kept clean. Sham-condition. CHURCH DIGNITARIES.

Father Benson, the son of the late archbishop of Canterbury, whose reception into the church, as well as his ordination, took place within the last 14 months, is now studying theology with Mgr. Stapleton Barnes at Cambridge, instead of, as he once intended, returning to Rome for that purpose. .

Rev. Charles E. Guthrie, pastor of Park Place Methodist Episcopal church, Baltimore, announces that in future he will refuse to read the marriage service at rehearsing parties Moreover, he discourages the idea of fashionable weddings in churches. which make rehearsals necessary. holding that such affairs make too much of the dramatic effect and dress display and too little of the solemnity of the obligation that is being assumed. Mr. Guthrie believes that an important contributing cause to the divorce evil lies in the fading out of the religious idea regarding marriage.

Modesty is the mark of might. Men need new hearts more than

Envying another's cake only spoils row always die to-day. The more haste men make for happiness the less intimate acquaintance three pillows, infinite love and infinite wisdom and infinite sacrifice.-John If you are poor and weak and help

If we could see where disgrace red ly lies, how often men would be ashamed of their riches and honors and would discern that a had temper or an irritable disposition was the greatest family disgrace that they possessed.—Arthur Helps. Calmness is not a thing of mere surface emotion, but must go down to the deenest condition of our lives. We cannot say just: "Go to now, I will be calm;" we must cry with Paul: "Now the Lord of peace give us peace by all means."-Phillips Brooks.

It is a vain thought to flee from the work that God appoints us, for the sake of finding a greater blessing to our own souls, as if we could choose for ourselves where we shall find the fullness of the divine presence, instead of seeking it where alone it is to be found, in loving obedience,-George

QUITE UNUSUAL

The largest wooden statue in the world is to be seen in Tokio, Japan. It is 54 feet high, and the head will hold 20 people. A Kansas City hotel charged up several telephone messages to a deafmute. There's such a thing as going too far in making out a bill.

Returning to his house at Argenteuil, in France, Mr. Hugh Gooding was shot at by a discharged employe, the bullet flattening itself against a silver eigarette case, which he car ried just over his heart. Luther Burbank, the "plant wizard" of California, is evidently not the only man alive who conjures with nature. It is reported that W. Bell, of Mumby, Louth, Ireland, after experimenting for five years, has produced tomatoes and potatoes, grown on the same plant from the same tuber.

Paris has a dwarf elephant about the size of a Shetland pony. Its keeper is a Senegalese, who has to sleep in a cot where the elephant can see him. The captive's favorite dish is six pounds of rice steeped in four pints of milk. He can also enjoy a nice twopound salad.

Success Symptoms. Dusty-What makes you think he as not realized all his ambitions? Crusty-He is so agreeable.-Judge

TWO NOTABLE RECOVERIES FROM EXTREME DEBILITY.

shand's Strength Had Been Waning for Three Years, Wife a Sufferer from Female Weakness. "My strength had dwindled so that I couldn't apply myself to my business with any snap but was tired and listless all the time," said Mr. Goldstein. "I went to bed completely used up by my day's work, and when I got up in the morning I didn't feel rested a bit. I had awful headaches too, and my kid-neys got out of order and caused me to have severe pains in the back. At one time I became so feeble that I could not stir from bed for three weeks." Mr. Goldstein is a young man and had then but recently established a home of his own. His auxieties were increased by the fact that his wife was far from being robust. Mrs. Goldstein says: "For two years I had been ill most of the time. Sometimes I was confined to bed for weeks in succession under a pitysician's care. I had headaches, kidney would stand him in good stead. A trouble, pain about the heart and many tremendous amount of work. He is nected with that weakness to which my

"I was utterly discouraged," said Mr. Goldstein. "Then the urgency of some friends led me to try a blood and nerve remedy which was said to be wonderfully successful. Within a mouth there were unmistakable signs of improvement in my condition, and within a year 1 was completely well. Through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I have now as good health as I ever had in my life." Mrs. Goldstein adds: "The wonderful effect that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had them and they helped me even more quickly than they did him. One box made me decidedly better and a few months' treatment curtd me." Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best tonic and regulator, they make pure, rich blood and when there is general weakness and disorder that is what the system needs. Mr. and Mrs. H. Goldstein live at 38 Gove street, East Boston, Mass. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by

in the case of my husband led me to try

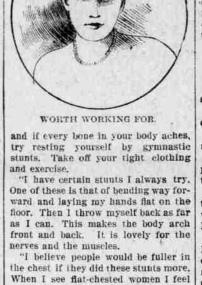

For Preserving, Purifying and Beautifying the Skin. Scalp, Hair, and Hands,

> READERS OF THIS PAPER DESIRING TO BUY ANYTHING ADVERTISED IN ITS COLUMNS WHAT THEY ASK FOR, REPUSING

LIVE STOCK AND ELECTROTYPES In great variety for sale at the lowest prices

ON CHEST DEVELOPMENT.

Persistent Attention to Exercises and

Good Habits of Holding Chest developed-if I do say it myself. I am not good looking, but I certainly have a nice chest and bust development. And for this there are certain exercises," says, an artist's model, as reported in the Cincinnati Commercial

"I am very supple. Sometimes I say that I was brought up in a gymnasium,

so much that my joints are very limber.

to be able to bend your body.

Bring Fine Results.